After a sing song Mrs. W. Patterson conducted a contest in which she played a number of selections on the piano for the guests to name. Mrs. H. Morse did her share of the program by providing each with a slip containing some bit of information or advice to read for the assembly. Mrs. M. Enger, in costume, read a selection, "My Dairy, a Pair of Faded Blue Jeans." A music contest brought the program to a close. Mrs. R. Dempsey then asked the guest of honor to break one more heart by opening the flower decked heart shaped box within which were piled gifts from her many friends. EDITORIALS

LET THE BUYER BEWARE

An article in one of the Calgary papers warns citizens to be on guard against "sharp business tactics and high pressure salesmanship." This warning is also applicable to country towns and it is up to the householders to watch out for them. Many householders are gypped by these men (or women) through nobody's fault but their own. Home owners should make the salesman produce their selling licenses, or better still refuse to do business with them. A permit from the Town secretary with license paid is required before these house to house canvassers may solicit business.

It will not be long now before television arrives and prospective customers should be on the lookout for racketeers selling television sets. Rackets worn out in the East and Pacific coast will be attempted throughout Alberta, not only in the towns and villages but in the rural areas. The article goes on to say "unethical dealers will install 17-inch sets in the homes of people who want them but the sets will be tampered with in some way to make sure they don't work quite right. When the consumer complains the salesman will ask what more could be expected from a 17-inch set and then proceed to convince the buyer that what is needed is a larger, more expensive, "better working" 21-inch set. Rackets in other appliances such as vacuum cleaners are worked the same way.

The safest way is to deal with your local dealers for any class of goods, who are permanently located here and "not here today and gone tomorrow."

MASTITIS

Mastitis is a serious disease occurring in udders of cows. It has caused heavy losses to many dairy farmers in Alberta in terms of decreased milk production, decreased butterfat and period of uselessness of milk cows or cows dying. Mastitis gain entrance to the udder through teat opening. There are two forms of mastitis, namely acute and chronic. The chronic form is slower in action, attacks milk secreting cells and leaves hard lumps in the affected quarter. The acute type is not as common, resulting often in cut or injured teats. The disease strikes suddenly, whole udder becomes swollen and the animal is visibly sick.

Mastitis spreads from an infected cow to healthy cows. Any means that will carry the germ from one udder to another will spread the disease. Here are a few hints on prevention of this disease: — 1. Clear yards and pastures from all machinery, wire, etc., to prevent injury of teats and avoid leaving cows in wet, muddy yards where they can chill their udders. 2. Stalls should be long enough to prevent udders from hanging over edge of gutters when lying down. Cows should not be crowded too closely together in barns as there is danger of teats being stepped on. 3. Ensure sufficient bedding to prevent bruising or chilling and avoid drafts. 4. Milking machines should be properly operated. Milking machines do not cause mastitis but can do damage to udders when improperly operated. Don't operate the machine at too high a vacuum and remove as soon as cow is milked. 5. Practice rapid, sanitary milking methods. Wipe udders before milking with chlorine or quartenary ammonium solution. This is a disinfectant. Use a disinfectant to wipe udder of all cows before milking. Milk infected cows last.

Treatment should be considered as only part of control program. When an animal is infected, penicillin and new antibiotics (streptomycin and aureomycin) in form of bougies or ointment should be administered. A cow that has a bad infection should be treated during the dry period. These treatments are quite effective, but if a cow has progressed too far they may not work. In cases of treatment, your local veterinarian should be consulted. Services for a herd control program is offered by the Department of Agriculture and details of this can be obtained from this office.

JUNE SURVEY

The annual June survey of farm crops and livestock commences on June 1. Forms are distributed by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and provinces co-operate with the bureau of the conduct of the survey. The survey makes it possible to measure the changes which have taken place during the past year in the numbers of livestock on farms and the acreages seeded to crops.

Information supplied by an individual farmer is kept confidential. All farm reports received are grouped together and enable the statistician to estimate the annual statistics so important to farmers and their organizations. All farmers, therefore, are asked to co-operate in making this survey as successful as possible.

FARM YOUNG PEOPLE WEEK

This is the 36th annual event to be held at the University of Alberta and this year it will be held in the period June 8 to June 16. The age limit is 16 to 27 inclusive. The course is sponsored for the benefit of farm young people. Programme booklets and entry forms can be obtained from this office.

WHEAT POOL PAYMENT

The Alberta Wheat Pool is making a distribution of cash payments totalling $587,000, this being a patronage dividend on deliveries by members to the Alberta Pool Elevators during the 1952-53 season. A further $1,907,000 is being credited to such member patrons in the form of Wheat Pool reserves.

Cheques were mailed out to Alberta Pool Elevator agents who will distribute them amongst the Pool's 36,000 member patrons.

ST. PAUL JAYCEES HOST TO PROVINCIAL CONVENTION

Over 100 Delegates Register For Two-Day Sessions

ST. PAUL, May 15—St. Paul Junior Chamber of Commerce members are a busy lot these days. They have accepted the honor and the tremendous task of playing host to provincial members and organizing the annual convention being held here May 23 and 24.

A long chain of events and activities have led to the selection of St. Paul as the 1954 site for this important conference of young business men in Alberta.

The St. Paul Jaycees have been recognized through the years as one of the most progressive units, both on the local front and in the provincial field. Active community promotion and participation in provincial affairs are responsible for the distinction and the responsibility placed upon them.

Mr. Ted Paradis, convention chairman, in charge of organizing the program has left no stone unturned to provide the greatest possible amount of entertainment while at the same time not sacrificing the importance and the value of the business sessions which will take place in the course of the two-day convention.

Registration at this early date indicates that over 100 delegates have signified their intention to attend the sessions and participate in the social functions. Delegates from each of the 18 Jaycee units in Alberta will be present along with a number of dignitaries, including guest speakers from the Government of Alberta and Edmonton business executives as well as Chamber of Commerce members from both the Junior and Senior organizations.

This first holiday week-end of the summer should bring out more than the usual number of delegates as the urge at this time of the year is to head for the country. St. Paul, situated as it is, in the heart of a fishermen's paradise, will give the Jaycees an opportunity to have their country holiday while attending the convention.

Being a comparatively small town, the entire population of 2000 is going to go all out to welcome the delegates to the first provincial convention held in this town.

In extending a welcome to delegates, Mr. Ted Paradis says, "We intend to make this convention a memorable one for St. Paul and Alberta Jaycees, alike. We will provide Jaycees with every opportunity to make this not only a successful convention, but also a week-end which they will long remember as the gayest and most profitable they have ever spent."

EDMONTON REPORT

By Donald F. Smith

EDMONTON—Interest in the Home and School movement continues to grow in Alberta, according to reports presented last week at the 23rd annual convention of the Alberta Federation of Home and School Associations.

More than 300 delegates attended. They were told there now are about 450 local associations affiliated with the provincial body and membership has climbed to more than 25,000.

Meeting at the University of Alberta here, the delegates covered a wide range of subjects dealing with education. They elected Mrs. D. A. Hansen, of Calgary, as the federation's president to succeed J. E. Simpson, of Edmonton. First vice-president is W. E. Hodgson, of Edmonton.

Mrs. Kenn Tory, of Wainwright, was selected as vice-president in charge of extension. Among those elected regional vice-presidents were E. E. Oliver of Fairview, for the Peace River district; W. Perley, of Thorsby, north-central; Mrs. R. V. McCullough, Red Deer, south-central, and R. Dillenbeck, of Burdett, south.

Six-week teacher - training courses, curriculum deficiencies, provincial and federal aid for education and the need for teaching facilities for physically-handicapped children were among the many topics discussed at well-attended conference sessions.

Resolutions speaking against the six-week teacher training course, passed by the last legislative session and opening in July, were submitted by many local associations and combined into one which the convention approved. It urged the education department to maintain at least the one-year requirement for a letter of authority and added: "It is recognized that teacher training in Alberta should be of at least two years' duration." Along the same lines was a resolution asking that entrance requirements to the faculty of education be at least maintained if not raised.

Expressing fear that Alberta high school students are not being taught sufficient mathematics, delegates urged a second math course for Grade 12 and also passed a resolution asking that French courses be made available to all junior high school students. Increased federal and provincial aid and schools or the physically-handicapped were requested.

Emphasizing a need for increased services, federation officials obtained delegates' approval of an increase from 25 to 35 cents per year in the membership fee. Delegates spent considerable time in "workshop" sessions for the discussion of such topics as parent education, community influences and school education.

President Simpson reported having travelled more than 5,000 miles in one year on federation business. The corresponding secretary's report indicated the volume of federation business—453 letters received, 334 sent.

G. F. Bruce, of Edmonton, national home and school president, called on HSA members to remember "that our task concerns the welfare of our children. They merit the best we can give them. We must seek to know what that best is."

Premier Manning's announcement last week of the government's decision to approve plans for export of natural gas from Alberta to the east and Montana came as a sort of anti-climax. It was accompanied by little of the deep interest evoked when the last conservation board report was released to the public last December.

Most persons, of course, considered it a foregone conclusion. Then, too, N. E. Tanner, president of Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Limited and former Alberta mines minister, three weeks ago told the federal board of transport commissioners that the conservation board was prepared to issue a permit about May 12. He was only two days out; the permit was issued May 14.

Trans-Canada, the company which will pipe gas east, is an amalgamation of the two companies, whose applications for export permits were rejected by the board last November. They merged at the suggestion of provincial and federal governments.

The permit will cover a 27-year period including two years to complete financing, engineering and most of the construction. It gives Trans-Canada permission to take a maximum of 4.35 trillion cubic feet of gas from the province during the period, with movement to start not later than the end of 1955. Construction of the big line, expected to cost $350 million to $400 million, is not expected to begin until 1955, indicating that the first gas will flow only to Manitoba. Gathering and distributing lines and processing plants will raise the total to about $600 million.

Gas fields and the amounts of gas the company will be allowed to take from them are defined by the permit. Of the 4.35 trillion, it is expected that 3.02 trillion will be used in the Canadian market.

Present provincial reserves are estimated at 13.4 trillion cubic feet, while the actual requirements of Alberta for the next 30 years are placed at 4.6 trillion. Mr. Manning said the estimates are geared to production trends and that there always is a minimum of 30 years' supply.

About 450 young men and women, who have been students at the University of Alberta for periods of three to seven years, climaxed their academic careers at convocation ceremonies last week. They received the degrees signifying their achievements in various fields of endeavor.

Many more students of one and two years' standing have completed their training for teaching diplomas. Graduates from the Viking district include: Frederick M. Lundgren, Viking, and Orest M. Semchishen, Ryley, bachelor of science degrees; Edward R. Brushett, Holden, BSc in chemcial engineering; Albert H. Dorin, Holden, BSc in chemical engineering; Jacob P. INDEXES SHOW

IMPLEMENT PRICES AT LOW LEVEL OF INCREASE

That implement prices have been kept at a low level is clearly shown by the comparison of Dominion Bureau of Statistics index figures, which give an increase in "all commodities" since 1941 of 82.1% as against an increase in a comparable index for Massey-Harris implements of only 66.9%. This low percentage of increase, too, is shown in the face of an increase in the index figure for materials of 94.7% and of Massey-Harris hourly rates of pay of 173.9% as can be seen by referring to the chart shown above.

Also, the indexes show that while farm implements have only increased 66.9% there has been an increase in the price of farm products of 82.6% and the scarcity of farm labour has caused farm wage rates to increase by 177.6%.

Farmers depend upon mechanization to offset the scarcity and high cost of labour and the indexes show that prices of such equipment have been maintained at a comparatively low level of increase. Farm equipment with its time and labour saving advantages offers exceptional value for the money.

This simplified diagram shows the construction of the Cobalt-60 beam therapy unit which will be used to treat cancer patients at the Provincial Cancer Clinic, Edmonton. The cobalt source, consisting of 25 discs of cobalt, each a half millimetre thick and one inch in diameter, is surrounded, except in the forward position by approximately 11 inches of lead. The cone-shaped port in the forward direction is normally filled with mercury (M) to cut off the radiation until the patient is ready for treatment. After the patient is placed in position, the mercury is forced out of the port by compressed air, allowing the rays from the cobalt to reach the patient.

Viking Mayor Cops Big City Job

(Edmonton Journal)

Laurie Rasmussen, mayor of Viking, has been appointed manager and supervisor of the Edmonton Gardens and Sales Pavilion, it was announced by James Paul, managing director of the Exhibition Association, on Thursday.

The 46-year-old mayor is well-known in district sports events. He was largely responsible for the organization of the Viking "Car-a-Month" club, which raised funds for the Viking arena, and last year he helped to raise a $1,000 donation for the Northern Alberta Crippled Children's Fund.

Mr. Rasmussen was a hockey player for 22 years. During the 1952-53 season, he came out of retirement to act as goalkeeper for the Viking team after the regular net minder was injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Rasmussen have five children, and one son will enter the University of Alberta next fall.

The new manager's duties will include overall promotions of shows and exhibits at the association's two arenas.

"We haven't decided on a title for him," said Mr. Paul, "but he is to supervise the operations and accommodation facilities at both the Pavilion and the Gardens.

The operation of the two is big business, reports Mr. Paul. Mr. Rasmussen will be in charge of entertainment facilities worth more than $1,350,000, with a gross yearly revenue of about $200,000.

This year, with the heated addition to the Pavilion, it is planned to have exhibits at all times of the year, such as the "Motorama" and "Better Homes" shows scheduled for this fall and winter.

In addition, the Gardens will be renovated to accommodate a wider variety of shows. A tile floor will be installed and a 30-foot high curtain hung across the centre so the southern end may be used as an auditorium for the celebrity series.

Search Successful For Missing Woman

(From The Viking News)

A hunt for a missing woman who had wandered away from the Frank Soleski farm, eight miles northeast of town, ended successfully when found unharmed and practically no worse for the experience.

Miss Rosie Soleski, age 45, left her brother's farm about 5 a.m. Monday, accompanied by three dogs and presumably wandered about all day and night and when found was sleeping in a hay stack near the Mike Andrukow farm approximately 2½ miles away.

A search party consisting of neighbors, men from the gas camp and town was organized by Const. Smith of the RCMP and the lady was finally located early Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Soleski wish to thank everyone who joined in the search and assisted in any way.

Don't forget the Re-dedication service at the Irma United Church on Sunday, May 23.

Volunteer Blood Donors please contact Mrs. R. O. Larson, phone 30, or Mrs. D. H. Gunn, phone 6. Arrangements have been made with Mr. Symington for a bus to take those able to donate to Wainwright on the evening of May 25. This bus will leave Mr. Symington's parking lot at 6:30 p.m. From information we have received it takes four blood donations to make one transfusion of gamma globulin which is so vital in helping polio victims. Also we understand that each district will be given separate credit for the number of donors it contributors. So that the district of Irma itself will be listed as giving so many donations and will not be swallowed up among all those who give to the Wainwright Clinic at this time.

Mrs. James Fenton who suffered a fractured arm several weeks ago is now well enough to be home again.

Also home from hospital are Mr. I. S. Reeds, Mr. J. Donoghue and Mr. F. M. Hill. We wish them all a speedy and complete recovery.
